WHO WE ARE

Ranfac has occupied a unique place in the development of precision medical instruments for well over a century. Today, we're more than ever at the forefront of solutions to the immediate and emerging needs of healthcare professionals who trust our reputation for excellence.

MAJOR MARKETS

We work closely with medical professionals from a range of specialties and, while our inherently 'under one roof' capability has specific application to products for surgery, radiology and hematology, it also applies across a broad healthcare spectrum. As the market for instruments that integrate metal and plastics has expanded, for example, so has our ability to respond to new and significant opportunities.

SERVICES OFFERED

Under one roof, in our 40,000 sq ft facility, Ranfac production services for physicians, healthcare facilities and medical device companies include plastic, metal, machining, precision manufacturing and ETO sterilization capabilities, each designed to the most exacting standards.

Pre-production, our team of designers, engineers and craftspeople collaborate with you to develop solutions to new and emerging needs, and you'll find us experienced in all phase of the industry, from the essentials of cutting and grinding to the most advanced injection and insert molding. From design and production, all the way to assembly, sterilization and packaging, Ranfac is resourceful, innovative and reliable for an extensive range of applications including: Delivery systems, biopsy instrumentation, and laparoscopic and endoscopic devices.
